

CHANCES OF GAME TO-DAY DOUBTFUL

Delay Caused by Rain—Puts New Complex on World's Series.

NEXT CONTEST IS CRUCIAL

Victory for Athletics Means Title, Defeat Might Be Disastrous.

BY TY CORB.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Philadelphia, Pa., October 22.—"Good morning. Is it raining?"

That is the query the average man asks or hears when he arises these days, and it is only natural, since four days we have awakened to find it raining and baseball impossible, and the fifth, to-day, it would have been impossible to play even had the rain stopped completely and the sun been shining brightly. Neither of these happened.

While the National Commission and the contending teams in the 1911 world's series, the Athletics and New York Giants, will play the fourth game to-morrow if it is possible, I must say the outlook is gloomy. Folks who have visited Shibe Park tell me the mud is ankle deep. It will be almost a miracle if the infield and outfield dry sufficiently by 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon to make baseball possible.

Remember, though, I am not the weather forecaster and don't know what is in store for us to-morrow. I trust the series will be renewed at the earliest possible moment, for interest has been lagged, and the players of the Athletics are being harmed, by the long period of inactivity.

New Complex on Series.
Every baseball man I have talked to agrees with me that the rain has put a new complexion on the world's series. Whatever chance the Giants have—there it is by no means a remote one—hinges on the game which will be played in Philadelphia to-morrow afternoon, or some one day soon, when the weather permits. If New York should win, they will probably feel that they have at least an even chance, if not better, to capture the title. Indeed, where the series would probably have been completed in five games, or six at the most, with the Athletics winners, now it may require the seven contests.

I am basing "the dope" entirely on the fact that Mathewson has gained. He is a grand pitcher, and from what I have seen of him, is hard to beat when he is right. With him pitching the next game, the American League are going to have to fight hard to gain the verdict. I am of the opinion that since they have defeated "Matty" once, the Athletics will not fall down in their next attempt. But there is just a chance.

Believe me, to-morrow's game is a crucial one for the Athletics. Victory will assure them the title. Defeat might be disastrous, for it would give New York "second wind," and no man could foresee just what the outcome would be. McGraw wants to win, for he will overlook no opportunity to annex the next contest.

Pitching Selection Doubtful.
I still think that Manager Mack's pitching selection is doubtful. He has Bender and Coombs, two wonderful right-handers, ready to go into the box. The one which looks best prior to the start of the game will be chosen. No man can tell who that will be.

If, as reported, "Stuffy" McInnis is fit to play again, he may be found at bat. That is not a question of grave importance, simply because Davis has played jam-up ball in the three games completed, and would not be taken out unless Manager Mack was sure that the hard hitting McInnis would strengthen the team offensively. Of course, McInnis's fielding has been remarkable all season, but Davis's was good, too.

There has been a general discussion about the failure of the Giants to hit. That is easily explained. They were up against superb pitching, and when they knew, simply because Davis has played jam-up ball in the three games completed, and would not be taken out unless Manager Mack was sure that the hard hitting McInnis would strengthen the team offensively. Of course, McInnis's fielding has been remarkable all season, but Davis's was good, too.

Base running probably will be a negative quantity in the game played to-morrow or Tuesday. The base paths at Shibe Park are undoubtedly so heavy that the fastest men will have trouble taking extra bases on anything except a long drive. As for stolen bases, they will be almost impossible, barring an unusual start by the runner and a bad throw by the catcher.

Unless the Giants do bat more in the next games, however, they have a small chance of winning. Even the wonderful twirling of "Matty" must be backed up by some base hits.

FORK UNION ACADEMY WINS FROM RICHMOND ACADEMY
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Fork Union, Va., October 22.—In a football game here on Saturday Fork Union Academy defeated Richmond Academy 22 to 0. Richmond was outclassed in every department of the game. Coach Grimm played his substitutes in the last half. Daniel, Scholes and Bailey were the stars for Fork Union.

RAIN AGAIN WILL PREVENT GAME

Philadelphia, October 22.—Rain, which began falling here again shortly before 6 o'clock to-night, effectually killed all hope that the grounds at Shibe Park would be in condition to-morrow for the playing of the much-postponed fourth game of the world's championship baseball series between the Athletics and the New York Giants. Nature has done little to dry up the field since yesterday's postponement.

The drizzling rain which fell all night finally ceased about 9 o'clock this morning. Threatening clouds, however, continued to hang over the city, and the sun only managed to break through for brief intervals during the entire day.

Although Ground Keeper Schroeder and his assistants are doing everything in their power to help the condition of the field, it is pretty certain that there will be no game before Tuesday.

AMUSEMENTS

Academy—"The Firing Line."
Biyou—"The Goose Girl."

"The Firing Line."
The coming of "The Firing Line," the first dramatization of any of the celebrated books of Robert W. Chambers, which is to be presented at the Academy to-night, being looked forward to by all who have read the works of this noted author. The action of the play closely follows the line of the book. One of the principal scenes is laid at Palm Beach, Fla., and no more distinct, yet delicately tinted, picture of an American winter resort in full blossom of its brief reputation for gaiety, has ever been presented. It is clearly Mr. Chambers's purpose to show that the salvation of society lies in the constant infusion of new blood into its veins. The central figure, the captivating Sheila Carrados, of unknown parentage, yet reared in luxury, suddenly finds herself on Life's Firing Line, a target for the maliciously suggestive tongues of her particular world, battling with the most portentous problem a young girl ever had to face.

The company which Mr. Delamater has selected for its production is made up of first-class people, who have only been connected with rich class attractions. The scenic equipment will be particularly elaborate.

"The Goose Girl" To-Night.
One of the most pretentious offerings of the season will be presented at the Biyou this week, when Harold Macomber's "The Goose Girl," dramatized by George D. Baker, will make its initial performance.

Every one has read this popular tale, and given their sympathies first to the little goose-girl and then to the unfortunate Hildegard. The American consul and his war comrade, General Grumbach, retired master plumber, the Grand Duke, the stein, with his prime minister, and the mountaineer who assists Gretchen with love, are all here, and the most interesting story that has ever been told in stagecraft.

SHILOH PARTY RELIEVES CREW
Portland, Me., October 22.—Worn out by long hours at the pumps, which have been manned continuously for days, in order to keep their craft afloat, the members of the crew of the Holy Ghost yesterday, after having been at sea since last June, welcomed the arrival of a party who came from Shiloh to relieve them to-day. The pumps will be kept going until some definite plan is made for repairing the craft.

Mate McKay came ashore last night with Dr. Charles E. Banks, physician of the marine hospital, who said he would call the attention of the United States district attorney to conditions aboard the yacht.

"I was disgusted with conditions, and I think there should be some way to reach whoever is responsible," said Dr. Banks. "Many of the members of the crew are in a terrible condition with the scurvy. The two who are in the hospital, John Cummings and John Bolster, have the worst cases of scurvy that I have ever seen. Their joints are swollen, their gums festering and their teeth dropping out."

SOON WILL MEET NAVAL ACADEMY

A. & M. Team Is Getting Ready for Game in Annapolis.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

West Raleigh, N. C., October 22.—The showing made by the team in the same last Thursday with Bucknell University, when the Quakers were defeated 6 to 0, after suffering a humiliating defeat at the hands of the V. M. I. in Lexington the Saturday before, again called attention to the fact that when the A. and M. fighting spirit manifests itself the team can be beaten.

By a comparison of scores, Bucknell University has already secured a high standing among the larger teams of the North, Lehigh having been defeated, and Lehigh later tying Princeton. The Quakers have yet to meet such big teams as the United States Military Academy, Villa Nova, University of Rochester, Grinnell and Penn State, and their record this season will be watched with a great deal of interest by A. and M.

In the game Thursday all of the new men in the varsity strings—McIver, Anthony, Harris, Phillips and Sykes—played brilliant ball.

Early in the first quarter McIver, playing at center, had his right eye entirely closed by a hard lick in the scrum, but continued gamely in the contest to the end, giving Captain Schmidt, of Bucknell, all that he could do to hold his own. McIver was a substitute back fieldman last year, but was shifted to the vacancy at center, caused by the graduation of Bray, all-South Atlantic center, where he has been doing good work.

At the end of the first quarter, Harris, the new varsity fullback, was laid out by a hard lick in the scrum, and had to be taken out of the game. Up to the time he was injured he had played brilliant ball. Anthony, who was substituted for Harris at fullback, was a member of the A. and M. varsity team of 1907, but left school that year, and did not return until last spring.

At left end Phillips, a Portsmouth (Va.) boy, was a wonder. He is a sophomore in college, but did not try for the team last year. Thursday he was in nearly every play, never missing a tackle, and he is small of stature, being about five feet eight inches tall, but he is one of the nerviest men on the team, and tackles with crushing force.

Every old man on the team was in the game from beginning to end, Captain Stafford, at quarter, running the team with ease.

The next game on the schedule is with the University of Tennessee in Raleigh next Saturday. The team from the Volunteer State is an unknown quantity to West Raleigh, as it is the first time since the A. and M. team was scheduled with the Tennessee team at A. and M. that a game has been scheduled with the Tennessee team. Georgia Tech defeated Tennessee 24 to 0 last Saturday in Atlanta, but an easy game is not expected by A. and M., as Volunteers are preparing to fight hard for the game.

Saturday two weeks, November 4, A. and M. will tackle another team, having played before the United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis, Md. As the midshipmen are understood to have the best team in the history of the Naval Academy, A. and M. expects the hardest game of her career.

CUBS ARE PATCHING UP PITCHING STAFF

Chicago, October 22.—The Chicago National League club management has already started in to rehabilitate its pitching staff for 1912. It is understood left-handed twirlers will be in greater favor next season with the Cubs, and, following up this idea, Manager Frank Chance yesterday purchased Walter Nagle, a big left-hander, from the Newark Eastern League club.

In addition to Nagle, who is the first southpaw signed since the banishment of Jack Pfeister, the Cubs have added Jake Northrop, of the Reading Tri-State club, a big right-hander, said to be one of the best "right-handers" of the year. All told, the pitching staff now assembled consists of fifteen men, and others may be signed before the team embarks next spring for the training camp.

ADVICE FOR SNOODGRASS.

Christian Scientist Counselors Absent Treatment for "Fana."

Philadelphia, October 22.—"Fred" Snoodgrass, the centre fielder of the Giants, has been deluged with mail from all parts of the country, most of it touching on the spiking episode. One of the letters was from a Christian Scientist.

As writer told Snoodgrass that when he went on the field the "fana" feared him, to say to himself: "I don't hear you; I don't hear you."

"And you won't hear them if you do that," the writer declared. Snoodgrass appeared to think this advice unnecessary.

"I won't hear them; you may be sure of that," he said.

TEAM DID NOT EQUAL LAST YEAR'S SHOWING

Virginia Defeats St. John's by Single Touchdown—Great Improvement Needed to Insure Victory Over V. M. I.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Charlottesville, Va., October 22.—Although Virginia's defeat by Swarthmore, due to the bad decision of Field Judge Rumbaugh, did not dishearten the coaches and the students who have been giving the team loyal support, the showing of the players in yesterday's game with St. John's makes it very evident that the eleven has gone backward in the past week. Last season the Orange and Blue scored twenty-nine points on the Annapolis players, while on yesterday a single touchdown was made on the visitors.

Virginia will have to take a decided brace this week if she expects to win out next Saturday over the Virginia Military Institute eleven, which one week ago vanquished the strong Agricultural and Mechanical College team, of Raleigh, N. C. The significance of V. M. I.'s victory over the North Carolinians is shown by the fact that A. and M. last Wednesday defeated Bucknell, 6 to 0. Four years ago the Lexington team came here and gave Virginia a big score, the locals barely winning out by one point, 13 to 17. This year's contest promises to be equally as interesting.

The first backfield is still giving the coaches some trouble. The game opened yesterday with Todd at quarterback and Goodhue and Smith at half backs, but this combination played rather greenly and could make little headway through St. John's line. The ends, too, made a rather poor impression. MacDonald is still suffering with a bad shoulder, but hopes to be in condition shortly. It is likely that he will take Bowen's place at end next Saturday.

Head Coach Yancey is in no wise discouraged over the showing yesterday. After the contest he expressed entire confidence in the team, saying the players had an off day and would come back strong this week. "Virginia is yet going to whip Georgetown," he said.

FARCEICAL SUNDAY GAME AT CHICAGO
Chicago, October 22.—In a farceical game in which the two teams exchanged batteries, the Chicago American League baseball team won from the Chicago National to-day 6 to 2. The Americans freely batted the delivery of Ed Walsh, their own star pitcher, who was on the mound for the Nationals. The game was played for the benefit of St. Ann's Hospital here.

Score:
Americans 6 11 1
Nationals 2 7 0
Batteries: Richie, Archer and Needham, for the Americans; Walsh, White and Sullivan, for the Nationals.

"GRACE DARLING OF AMERICA" IN UNCONSCIOUS CONDITION
Newport, R. I., October 22.—Ida Lewis, whose many daring rescues as keeper of the Lime Rock Light, in Narragansett Bay, has earned for her the title of the "Grace Darling of America," was still unconscious to-night as a result of the stroke of apoplexy she sustained yesterday while at her post of duty. She cannot recover.

Lewis is seventy-two years of age, and for sixty years has been at the Lime Rock Light. In 1867 she was appointed keeper of the light by special order of Congress, to succeed her father upon his death. She is the only woman, it is said, ever to receive that honor.

AVIATOR FOWLER HAS HARD FIGHT TO LAND IN SAFETY
Beaumont, Cal., October 22.—A disabled aeroplane engine brought Robert G. Fowler to the ground at Stewart's Ranch, near here, at 9 o'clock this morning, temporarily halting his coast-to-coast flight, and giving the aviator one of the worst flights he has had, he said, since he took up aviation. At a height of 4,000 feet with a strong wind blowing, his cylinder became disabled, and Fowler had a hard fight to land safely. Beaumont is forty miles from Riverside, whence Fowler started to-day.

WISCONSIN WILL OPPOSE PLAN OF REORGANIZATION
New York, October 22.—Wisconsin is to be added to the list of states to be officially represented in opposition to the reorganization plan of the American Tobacco Company, according to advice received here to-day.

Louis D. Brandeis, of counsel for the independent companies, which oppose the plan, announced that he had been requested in a telegram to-day from Governor Francis E. McGovern, of Wisconsin, to represent the tobacco growers and manufacturers of Wisconsin, and had accepted.

NOW HAVE TWENTY CHILDREN.
Syracuse, N. Y., October 22.—A wedding in which a widow with ten children became the wife of a widower with ten more took place yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Assumption, when Mrs. Margaret Webster was married to Joseph Reinman, both of this city. The wedding ceremony was performed by Father Ambrose, pastor of the church.

Some of the children of both principals were present. The bride's youngest child is six years old, her husband's youngest is eight.

Run Dead Heat for Prize.
Paris, October 22.—At the Long Champs course to-day, W. K. Vanderbilt's chestnut colt, Montrose II., and his bay colt, Pettulane, ran a dead heat for the prix de la Foret. The stake was valued at $4,000, the distance being one mile.

EDNA GOODRICH ON WAY TO FACE NAT GOODWIN
Paris, October 22.—Edna Goodrich, the actress, and her mother, sailed Friday for New York on board the Kaiser Augusta Victoria. The name of her former husband, Nat Goodwin, was not mentioned, and the pair registered as Mrs. Goodrich and Miss Goodrich. The actress left the Hotel Carlton with more trunks than any voyager since Sarah Bernhardt made her last trip. E. R. Thomas saw them off at the St. Lazare Station.

The object of the return of Miss Goodrich is three-fold. First, she proposes to defend the ante-nuptial contract made by Goodwin giving her a large amount of property to induce her to marry him, a state of affairs similar to the Cavalier-Chanier case. Goodwin declares his name was forged to cablegrams regarding the transfer of property.

The case is set for trial at the next term of the court in Los Angeles. It will be contested to the bitter end.

The second object of the return of the Goodrichs is the suit brought by W. E. D. Stokes, owner of the Hotel Ansonia, in New York, against Miss Goodrich for more than $2,000. This sum is claimed for rental and food furnished to Mrs. Goodwin while she was stopping there last winter. An attachment was issued against Miss Goodrich's property in California.

Miss Goodrich insists that as the husband is the breadwinner of the family, he should pay the board and lodgings as long as she was Mrs. Goodwin.

The third object of Miss Goodrich's return is to fulfil an engagement in vaudeville. She declares, however, the principal object is to meet Goodwin face to face or to know the reason why.

TRYING TO FIND ROOM FOR GREAT WAR FLEET
Warships to Anchor in New York Next Saturday Will Have the Right of Way.

New York, October 22.—Finding sea room in New York Harbor for the 102 warships which will mobilize here next Saturday is becoming a more serious problem, and many merchantmen, tramp steamships, schooners and craft of various descriptions will have to leave the Hudson to make way for the biggest fleet of sea-fighters Uncle Sam ever has brought together.

In the next six days they will enjoy anchorage privileges on both shores of the Hudson, leaving a narrow lane in midstream for commerce.

If Rear-Admiral Osterhaus, who will command, had his way, still more room would have to be surrendered to accommodate the battle ships, three torpedo gun boats, torpedo boats, destroyers, submarines, tenders and transports, whose total tonnage will be 577,599.

There were more ships in the river for the Hudson-Fulton celebration, but the coming mobilization will overshadow all previous naval spectacles in this vicinity. The ships will line both shores of the Hudson for the entire length of Riverside Drive, leaving just about enough room in mid-stream for two good-sized river boats to pass. As a display of naval strength, experts declare it will surpass that of the German naval review at Kiel. There will be twenty-four battleships, including the two new Dreadnoughts, Florida and Utah; two armored cruisers, twenty-two destroyers, three torpedo boats, eight submarines, three torpedo tenders, four gunboats, nine miscellaneous vessels—hospital, repair, supply and ammunition ships—eight colliers, one oil tank and three tugboats.

DID NOT REGARD QUARANTINE LAW

Resident of Hanover Alleged to Have Permitted Spread of Diphtheria.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

At the instance of Dr. Roy T. Flanagan, director of inspections, State Board of Health, Toler J. Martin, a resident of Hanover county, was arrested Saturday on a warrant charging him with violating the State quarantine laws. He will be given a hearing before Justice T. J. Fuller at Ellersboro this morning at 9 o'clock.

The authorities charge that the delinquent has on former occasions disregarded the quarantine provisions, and while they cannot be definitely ascribed to the lack of caution on the part of Mr. Martin, there is a likelihood, in the opinion of the doctors, that it was to some degree the cause.

The offense is a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine.

CROESUS BY NIGHT AND PORTER IN DAY
Massee Makes $12.37 a Week, Lives in Fine House and Keeps an Auto.

St. Louis, October 22.—This is a story of a remarkable man who lives in St. Louis. He may be found at 1015 Washington Avenue any day in the week. He is "head porter" in the establishment and his is the privilege of "bossing" a dozen husky negroes at their daily tasks. He uses the broom, the mop and the duster.

C. W. Massee is his name. He lives in a splendid nine-room house at 2137 S. Louis Avenue.

He makes trips to Europe and is a cosmopolitan in a way, and when his trips are over he comes back to his brooms, his pails and his dusters.

Massee comes to work in a big touring car. Most any fair day this car may be seen standing in the alley back of the Washington Avenue establishment. He frequently dons his patterning clothes at noon and drives out to his home for lunch.

Massee is rich. He has more ready cash than two-thirds of the more dignified millionaires of St. Louis.

In that nine-room house, out on St. Louis Avenue and Twenty-second street, there are servants ready to obey his slightest wish. When he goes downtown and stops that big touring car of his in the alley, he hurries inside and dons his working garb, he becomes such a servant as even his chauffeur would scorn to become.

Massee owns nearly 30,000 acres of the rich, deep lands of Minnesota. He has other property, much other property, in fact, located in St. Louis. He is able to maintain a nine-room house, four servants and a big touring car while working at a salary that is in the immediate neighborhood of $50 a month.

His fellowworkers gasped with amazement when they learned of it. When he began coming down to his portering in a costly touring car that runs sixty miles an hour, they began to view him with awe. He is the "Man of Mystery" among his fellow-workers.

At Work Early.
Promptly at 6:45 every morning this tall, tall man, with the gold-brimmed glasses, hurries down the steps of his St. Louis apartment house and starts toward his brooms, his dusters and his twelve husky black men waiting for him. If the day is fair the big touring car is brought around from the brick garage and a willing and subservient chauffeur whisks him toward the alley. If the day is rainy he may take the more pedestrian street car.

As a rule his chauffeur calls for him at 6 o'clock every afternoon, the hour when he finishes his sweeping and dusting for the day. At 5:10 P. M. he emerges from the rear door of the factory, looking much like any other tired business man. There is the throb of a starting engine, and the millionaire porter is whisked out of the alley, a fifteen-mile-an-hour gate. The other porters take a street car.

Massee has been in St. Louis about four years. He married a widow with not a little property, and to this he has added steadily. It is said that he came to St. Louis to look for a fortune, and he has found it. He is a college man, and he worked his way through one of the colleges in St. Paul, Minn., and farced north to see the world. In his wanderings he came to St. Louis, where a charming widow and married her.

With the exception of trips abroad, he has been in St. Louis since. He tells his friends that he has always been a worker and that the action of the ordinary man of wealth to marry him, a state of affairs similar to the Cavalier-Chanier case, Goodwin declares his name was forged to cablegrams regarding the transfer of property.

The case is set for trial at the next term of the court in Los Angeles. It will be contested to the bitter end.
